TOWER

Manhasset High School 1942 Manhasset, New York

FOREWORD

We have watched one class after another stand upon the school stage and sing "O Stately Tower of Manhasset" on graduation night. In the words of this, our school song, "our memory ever will recall, the happy hours we've spent together" and curiously look ahead to what the future will bring. Whether we head for the college campus, probe into the mysteries of defense production, or enlist in the army or navy to fight the Axis, how can we ever forget the "rendezvous" under the "Tree," the mad rush to lunch from the parking space, or the strains of "Chattanooga Choo Choo" as we danced at noon in the General Purpose Room?

It is difficult to believe that we won't be hurrying along the "broad and classic halls" in order to get to home room before the bell rings or that we no longer will hear the proctors reminding us to "Keep right, please" or to "Stop running in the halls."

Many times we have looked out of a classroom window on a clear sunny day and wished that the time would come when we no longer have to return to the drudgery of schoolwork.

Now that day has come, and for the last time we "mingle merry hearts and voices in praise of Orange and Blue." We leave our high school life behind us, confident, however, that we have a permanent and irreplaceable record of it in this, our yearbook.

ADMINISTRATION

ADMINISTRATION

In the past year, the Board of Education has expanded the facilities of the Manhasset High School. In November, ground was broken for a new wing to include a shop, a home-economics room, a cafeteria, and two classrooms. The addition, which is in the rear of the school, is to be completed by September, 1942.

The Board, a policy-forming group, which consists of William E. Davis, president, Otto B. Blackwell, Frederick W. Wulfing, Harold T. Larsen, and Dr. Francis M. Crowley, meets once a month at the high school to discuss school affairs. George H. Oestreich, business manager and executive secretary of the Board, and Vinal H. Tibbetts, superintendent of schools, report to the Board upon conditions in the schools.

The Board has always had the best educational interests of the school in mind, and will continue, we are sure, to do as much for the school in the future as it has done in the past.

SCHOOL COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION

The School Community Association of Manhasset has done more for the community as a whole than most people realize. The association's able president, Mrs. John H. Sengstaken, has led the association in supervising the improvements and adjustments which benefit the school and the community.

One of the most important jobs of the S. C. A. is to raise money for the Student Loan Fund. Any student wishing to further his education may borrow money from the fund without paying interest.

Another undertaking of the association is the American Book Campaign — collecting books for our men in training. The association collected five thousand books within only two weeks.

The School Community Association also sponsors safety committees, guidance committees for the benefit of parents, adult recreation committees, playground committees, lectures by professors from nearby colleges and universities, and instruction in ballet and interpretive dancing. The association was even responsible for the milk stand in Room 15.

OUR FACITY

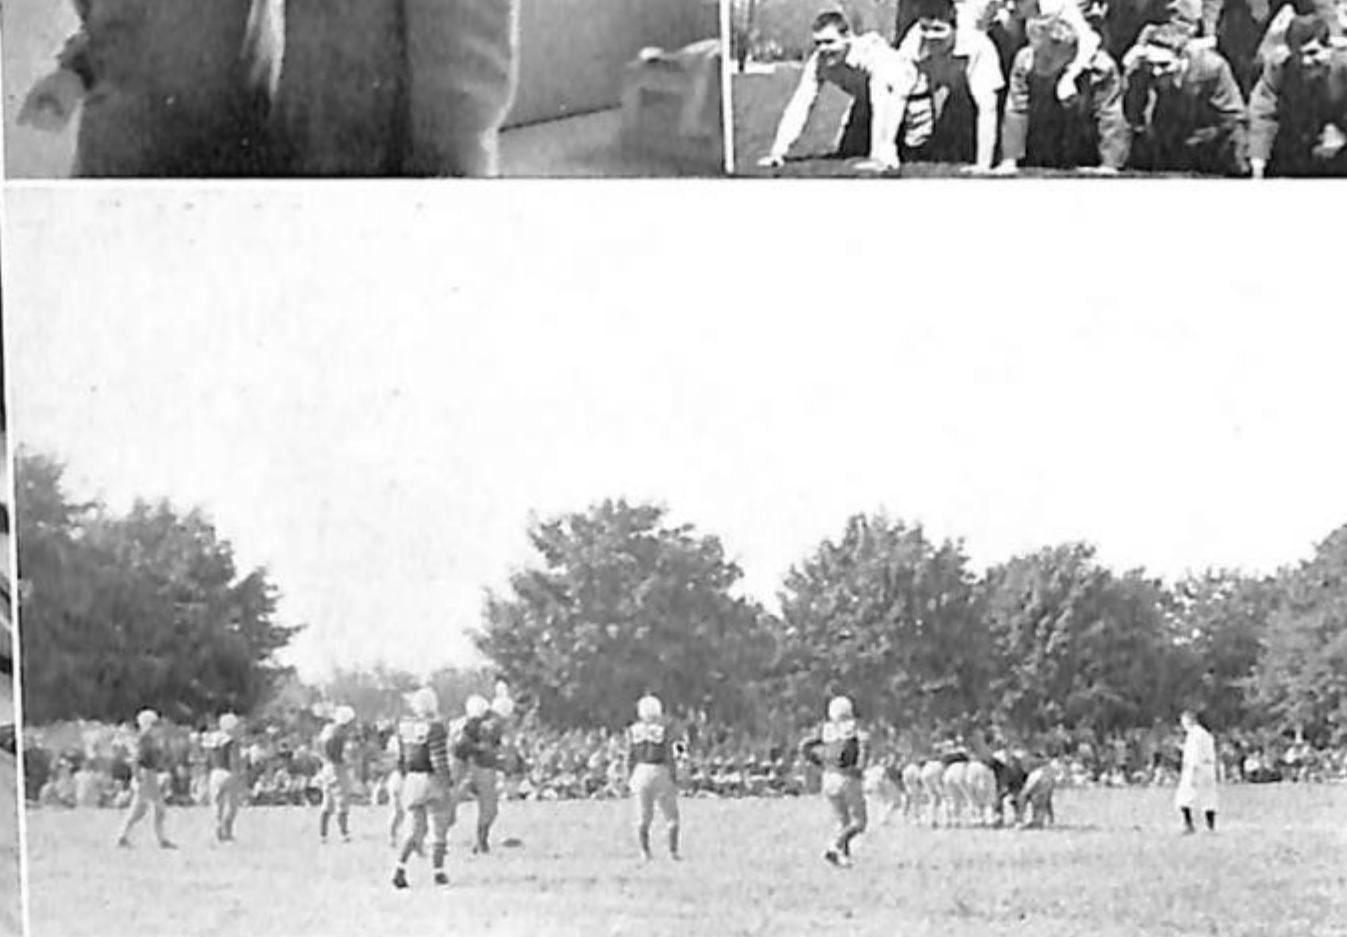

It can hardly be denied that the faculty of Manhasset High School is a highly unusual one. (At times some of our students may notice chiefly such common habits as the giving of homework and an unreasonable intolerance of friendly conversation, but that is beside the point.)

It would be impossible to describe in a short article all of our teachers and their attempts to instill learning into the heads of Manhasset's students—from Mr. Brewster's history lessons based on many historical facts quite different from those with which many of our students have been familiar, to the efforts which other teachers make to persuade eighth-graders to pay less attention to water guns and more to readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic. But it is worthwhile to mention Mr. Hoffman, who is now in the army.

New teachers are Miss Ruth Redding, who is taking Mr. Hoffman's place; Mrs. Eloise Malner, who teaches Home Economics, replacing Miss Moulton, whose death was a great loss to the school; Miss Virginia Whitaker, whose field is mathematics; Mrs. Carl Heinlein, who is teaching Spanish, a subject which, despite the Good Neighbor Policy, was re-introduced at Manhasset only this year; Miss Grace Colden, who teaches a group of eighth-graders; and, last but far from least, Mr. C. Arthur Miller, who, as few can fail to know, has charge of the orchestra and band.

The faculty has, of course, a task of no small difficulty in teaching the classes, but this duty (with such attendant work as correcting papers), is by no means their only one. They have also to attend faculty conferences, and many belong to the board which decides policy for the entire Manhasset school system. In addition, their position in the community makes them liable to requests to participate in church activities and in other work outside of their regular occupations. They have, also, been called upon to help in the community's part of the war effort. Practically all the men teachers are on the draft board, and almost all the women are helping with sugar-rationing.

The regular faculty, of course, do not comprise all of Manhasset's teachers. There are also a considerable number of internes who also do a great deal of hard work.

Introducing our Class Officers,

SCHMITZ and Treasurer RAYNOR

THE SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Modern definition of progress: we've grown from short pants to long pants and from skirts to shorter skirts. In other words, we're like a photograph just before the "finishing bath," namely, not quite complete but pretty well developed. Of course the faculty may have other ideas about this, but seeing that we're in a free country, (n'ya-a Hitler!) we're entitled to our own opinion. But enough! Facts are facts, and ah, say, speaking of facts, did "you-all" know that we are, without any possible dispute, the first class in the school to go all the way through Manhasset High from the seventh grade? (You're probably wondering where we got that "you-all" from. Whah, from our little blonde southe'n belle, a-co'se! . . . for details see Geo'gie Day, our red-haired football hero.)

During our sophomore and junior years, our benefactors, Alice (sometimes pronounced Alyce) Nelson, helped us put over a snappy Soph Hop and Junior Prom. Remember our stupendous Mexican decorations at the Hop and the super colossal "gay nineties" spirit recaptured by the Prom?

We think that our foremost thoughts of the Senior year have been, "I wonder if I'll be here next year?" or "I wonder if I'll be here the next two years?"

We also had a burning curiosity as to whether we'd be the first class unable to publish "The Tower." (Well, we admit, it looked rather hopeless for awhile, but that great staff wouldn't let us down. Yes, I said great staff!! What other Tower staff had such "can-can" dancers as Bill Pitt, Bob Giebel, Bill Von Lackum, Donald Sengstaken, and Bill Gurney?)

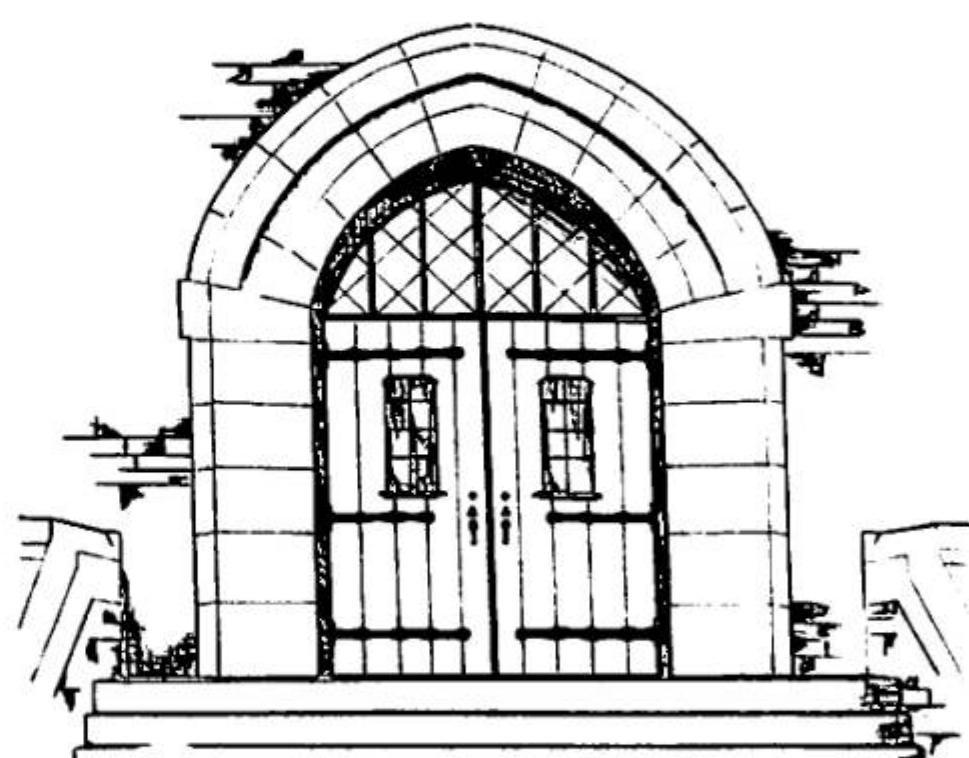

The next item that flashes to mind about our senior year is the election of class officers. Geo'gie Day, our strawberry blonde boy, was wisely chosen president; Fred (Gestapo) Maguire, our proctor captain, became vice-president; that petite siren Dot Schmitz was our hard-working secretary, and Bev Raynor, our blonde Venus, earned the title of "Treasurer."

Not so very long afterwards we all had our Senior "pichers took," and when the results were shown, the entire class promptly marched into New York for retakes. All kidding aside—look at us; we're really not as bad as those first pictures, are we? See all the pretty smiling faces? Be reasonable! They are pretty, aren't they?

Our Senior Ball in all its "Sun Valley" splendor was original and presented an appropriate atmosphere, we must admit. You must admit it, too—Yes, you must!

The girls ran for joy when they learned we were giving a Tower Hop—the boys simply ran. Good time was had by all.

Perhaps we've done a lot of raving about ourselves, but we want you to remember us, not just as another graduating class, but as individuals and friends. Why? Because it's going to be sort of hard forgetting M.H.S. and all of you, just like that—you know. We'll be back, though, not as M.H.S. students, but you can bet that we'll be back!

C L A S S P R O P H E C Y

It's a busy day in Larchmont in the home of the newly-elected Congressman Bob Meyer, the youngest person ever to hold this office. He is holding a party for all his friends, 1942 alumni of Manhasset High School. Let's crowd in and see what's going on. Why, Professor Thompson is there explaining his fourth dimension to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sotanski, the former Nora Pinatello. Guess what's happening in the study? Kaki and Bill are just drawing their 14th rabbit out of the hat. There's Dottie Dillenbeck making a mad dash after Kenny Jr. who is practically deminking Muriel O'Brien's latest creation. Miss O'Brien is accompanied by America's No. 1 glamour "pousse" Patty Malone. The former Hermit Herzer is out on his first date with a blonde. Could it be Miss Raynor? Why, yes, on second glance it is. Pat Rock, healthy as ever, has just come in with her husband, Jack Casey. They are now operating a health resort. She speaks well for her establishment. There is Mrs. Meyer the former Dale Ingvolstad serving tea like a perfect hostess.

Let us wander into the living room. By the piano is Bob Mabbs accompanying Bill Gurney, who has just returned from a concert tour. Is that a copy of the Country Ledger edited by Bill Von Lackum? Why it is! Here's Beverly Brannin's latest scoop. Anne Schmitz has finally been accepted by Mt. Holyoke after trying for 10 years. While still in the paper we find a picture of the new transoceanic bridge designed by Bill Pitt. Let's look at the Sports Section. Well, well, Johnnie Maguire's Giants have won the pennant again. The "House of Wakem" exclusive dress designer who clothes Anne Curran, goddess of Fashion, is splurging a full page ad done by McMahon and Kenyon's Advertising Agency. The illustrations for this ad were done by Miss Joanne Callis.

Let's get back to the party. Bob Nugent, assistant manager of the Penn Drug Store, has just gotten the day off to come to this gala affair. The Misses Harris and Creelman, directors of Les Ecoles Maternelles pour Les Jeunes Enfants on Park Ave., New York, have just arrived. One of their most prominent pupils is little Miss Gloria Lancaster, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lancaster. At 4 o'clock we must listen to Guy de Bouroff's concert orchestra featuring Gladys Lewis as guest artist on the program. Following that broadcast is Ziggy Elmore's swing band featuring his new blues singer Miss Alice Nelson. Ferris Sylvanus Moulton has revived the amusement park with his new fangled ferris wheel with room for only 2 people. He is describing this to Jeff Cooper in hopes she will bring her children of which she already has a good brood. What have we here? A general, none other than Fred Maguire with his battalion of able-bodied assistants, Monk Miller, Howie Raugh, Oogie Brown, Joe Podbielski, and George Makris.

We miss Pat and Ed Brandenburg, but they are busy putting a new picket fence around their love nest. As dusk falls there come a few stragglers as usual, flying all the way from Seattle. Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Durbin, (former Marion McGrew), are circling over the house, while Betty Raugh and Marilyn Bender busily tie up their boat. They have just returned victoriously from the Bermuda race. Now that our guests are all assembled, everyone raises his glass in a toast, and with loud and lusty voices, they break forth in "Stately Tower of Manhasset" to our dear old Alma Mater.

CLASS OF

*President HUNT, Vice-President VINCENT,
Secretary MILLIKEN and Treasurer HANSEN*

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

Swish - - - - another of those ambitious juniors has just scurried down the hall to attend an "all-important" junior class meeting. This exhibition would appear unusual to a stranger but to the students of Manhasset High, it is an everyday occurrence.

Athletic, educational and social activities fill the calendar of the energetic juniors. Last fall Ernie Hansen, Dave Hunt, and Ben Evans, all star players of the varsity football team, shone brightly on the field. For the first time in the history of the school, there was a three-way tie between the same three boys for captaincy of next year's football squad. Eddie Sanson and Ernie Hansen flew around the basketball court, zoomed the ball into the baskets, and led Manhasset to victory many a Friday evening. Bob Simmons, Ernie Hansen and Ben Evans are members of that cruel, but vivacious, lacrosse team. Ernie Hansen has been an all-star lacrosse player for three years.

Junior girls are also active in sports as they comprise at least half of the Girls Athletic Council. They are the backbone of such sports as hockey, tennis, badminton, softball and volley ball. Betty McKenna and Dot Garrick, assistant captains of the Orange and Blue teams respectively, will become the color captains next year.

Betty Lou Milliken, artistic genius, transformed the gym for the annual junior prom into a paradise for lovers in the spring. The swaying rhythm of Buckie Walker's Orchestra completed the setting.

The junior class has initiated many novel ideas through the Student Congress, the selling of coca-cola at dances, for instance. They have created a genuine interest in the work of the Congress because of their untiring efforts.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

It is said that our present conflict is a total war, affecting every single individual, regardless of sex or age. It certainly has affected Manhasset's Sophomore Class. By selling cakes in Wright's, it raised $30. This money was intended to help pay for the Sophomore Hop, but when it was seen that the other funds were sufficient, it was put into War (or, at the time, Defense) bonds, as was $15 which the class got from a bowling alley which it had hired for one day.

But the "Soph Hop," one of Manhasset's best-known institutions, not even a world war can change. This year, as is the custom-violating custom (though one perhaps appropriate in a world where women are constantly entering fields formerly reserved for the other sex) the girls took the boys to that function, presided over this year by "Liz" Lancaster. The decorations were representations of popular records, and the motif was as successful as when a Japanese garden was an acceptable theme.

The war will, we hope, be over before the present sophomores of Manhasset High are taxpayers, voters, and soldiers of the United States, but if not, we may be confident that they will not be behind in bearing their share of the war effort.

President MacNAMEE, Vice-President HICKS, Secretary KELLOGG and Treasurer HUNT

Embryo political genius may lie in such sophomores as Frank MacNamee, this year for a second time President of the class of '44; Helen Hicks, Vice-President; Barbara Kellogg, Secretary; and Virginia Hunt, Treasurer. And if the battle of Waterloo was won on the playing-fields of Eton, the Axis may certainly be said to have suffered by the exertion of such sophomore athletes, in basketball and lacrosse, as Arthur de Lapp, and Lawrence Dorr, and, in baseball, Andrew Paturzo.

CLASS OF 1945

9th GRADE CLASS HISTORY

Although the class of 1945 has inhabited the halls of Manhasset High for only two years, they are well adapted to the school's customs. With the clang of the bell, they trot to their next class as chipper and noisy as their fellow students.

*President McMahon, Vice-President Kelly,
Secretary Doyle and Treasurer Garrick*

At 3:15, one can see Phil Smyth and John Podbielski, their two oldest athletes, dashing toward the gym to basketball, lacrosse or football, depending on the season. They are so versatile, you know. Just behind them are two other ambitious frosh, Ralph O'Connor and Charlie Currie, who are hurrying to either soccer or basketball. Larry Kelly, capable master of ceremonies on "Information Please" last year, and William Shakespeare (no, not the ancient, but the modern, Shakespeare) proved themselves talented and spirited in the lively games of basketball and j.v. football.

Don't think for a minute the freshmen girls are all of the prim old-fashioned type. Beginner's basketball, hockey and swimming are largely composed of freshmen.

Past experience with their own bank, which sold stock and paid interest on its shares, has taught this class to be thrifty.

Just imagine, they are the first frosh class to hold a dance all their own, a regular dance with a real orchestra. They support all the other school dances and social events in a true Manhasset fashion.

With the same enthusiasm they show in school I am sure this freshman class of '45 will advance in a world of trouble, and brighten it by their order.

CLASS OF 1946

8th GRADE CLASS HISTORY

As you step in the entrance of Manhasset High, and go down a crowded staircase, you find yourself in the realm of the sub-freshmen. A shadowy corridor is the means of communication between the four rooms; it is the main street where all important business is transacted and gossip exchanged. Before the bell rings in the morning, and after school, you can hear cries of "Hey, you, listen! Melissa, are you dead? Hurry up, it's hours I'm waiting for you. We'll be late for noon dancing!" Or maybe a more poised member will be crooning out the blues, and examining the new and very daring nail polish recently applied, while a group enthusiastically taps in really savage fashion on the tiled floor a rather hot version of the latest jitterbug steps.

Eighth-graders are very eager to participate in activities and be a part of the student body. Early in the year they led the G.O. drive with 100 per cent membership, and wore off their energy and pep at football games by yelling their lungs out for the team.

Their musical talent is exhibited not only in doing the Lindy during noon hour in the general purpose room, and filling your ears with their tunes, whether on or off key, but also in the more serious branch of playing for the band and orchestra, like Basil Levine, Joan Swartz, Joan Weniger and Bill Hogbart show us.

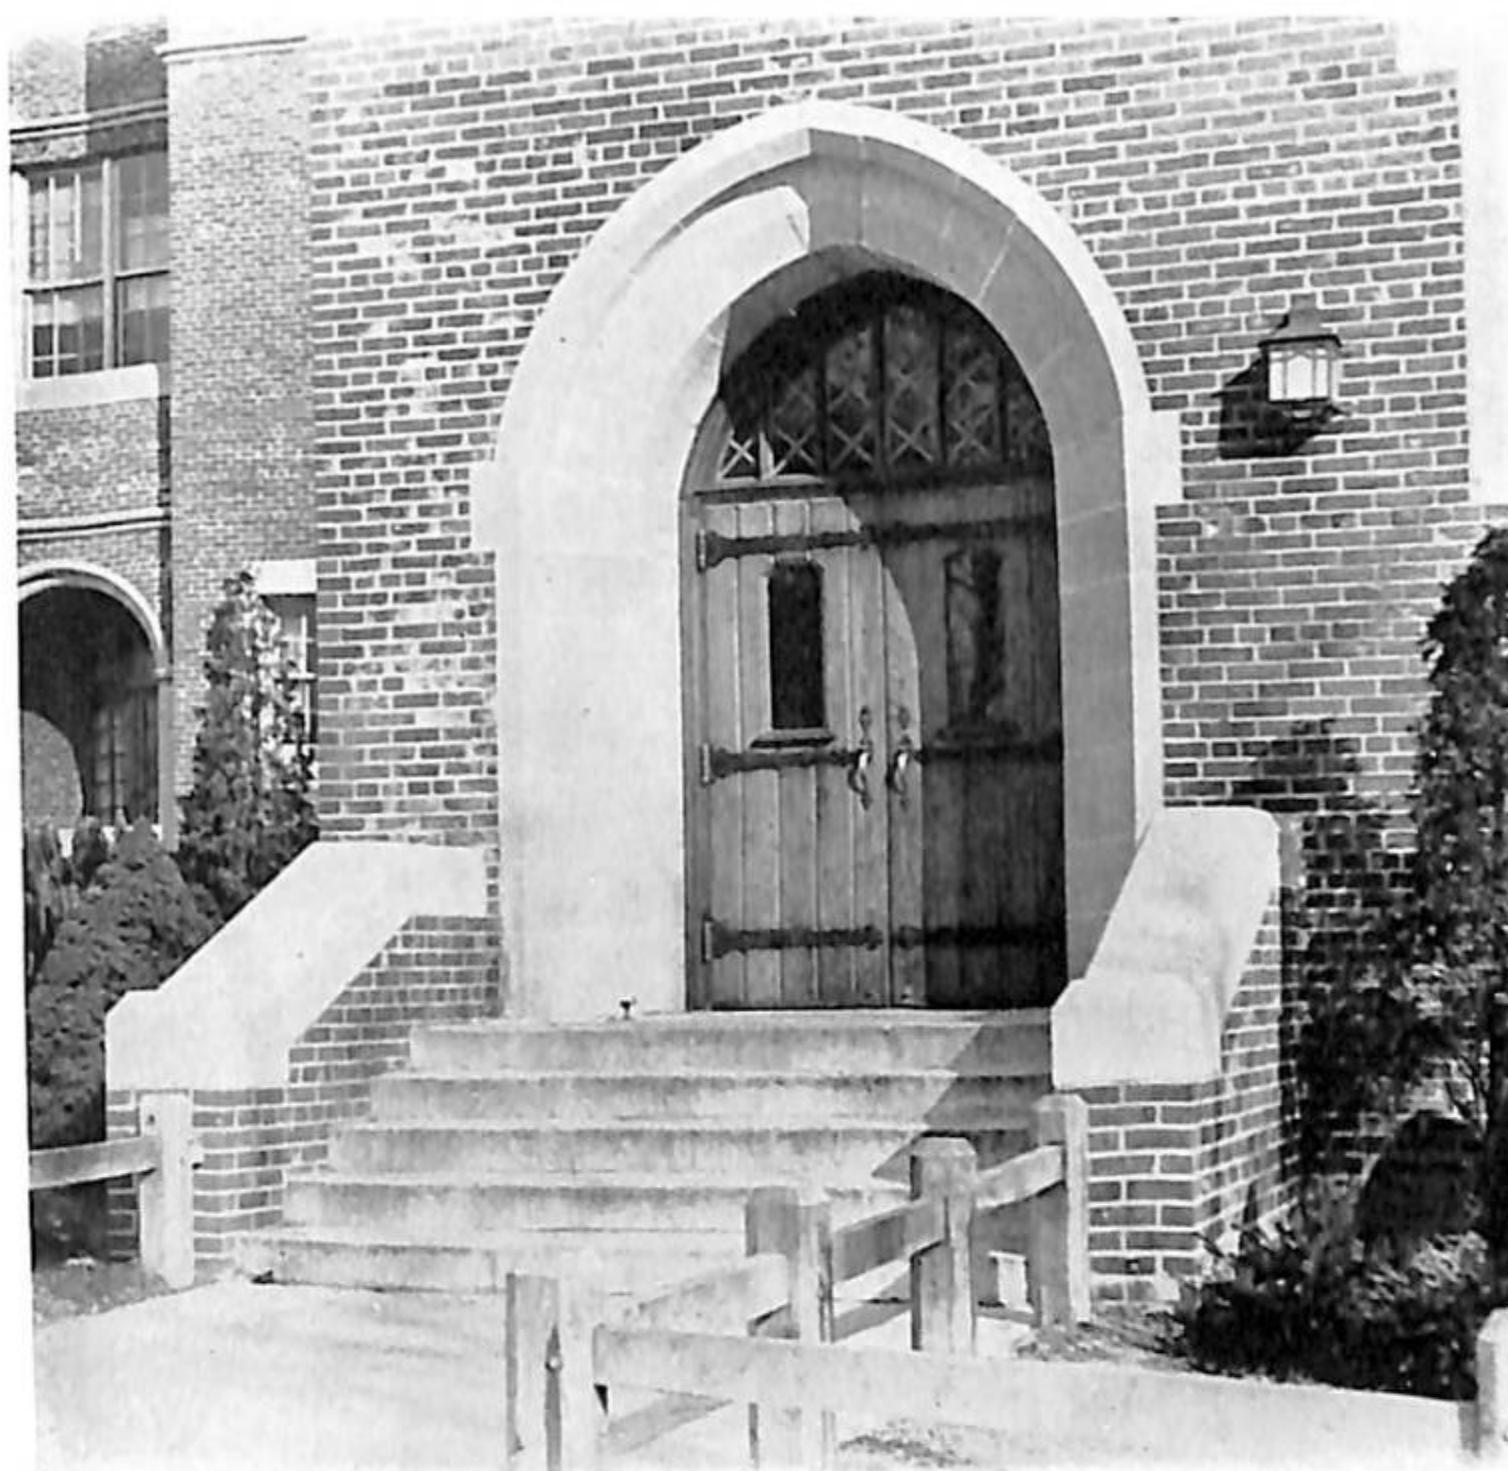

The sub-freshmen are proud of the pretty and glamorous drum majorettes, who whirl their batons with ease and grace in assembly and know all the tricks of their difficult art. The drum majorettes are Evelyn Broglio, Mary Riordan, Virginia Liptrot, Gladys Rice, Norma Hicks, Barbara Cox, Joan Swartz, and Marilyn May.

The president of the G.O. Council, the executive body of our school, is Bob Meyer. Under him are Eddie Sanson, vice-president; Pat Stephens, secretary; Bill Von Lackum, assistant secretary; and Mary Viktorin, treasurer.

This organization works in conjunction with the Student Congress. The president of the G.O. Council also presides over the Congress and a member of the Council is represented in Congress.

This organization started in September by issuing to all students a student bible, which is a schedule of all football games.

For a better cheering section at games the G.O. Council got us an amplifier.

Library proctors are stationed at the door of the library to see that every book that goes in or out has been signed for. In this way they hope to reduce the number of books lost every year through carelessness.

To improve the school grounds a law was put through forbidding smoking beyond the flag pole.

These are only a few of the good works done by this organization which the student body itself elects every June to run their school affairs.

"Mr. President."

"The chair recognizes Bettie Raugh."

"I move that we recommend to the G.O. Dance committee that they sell Coca-cola at the G.O. Dances. All in favor say Aye."

"I second the motion."

"Is there any discussion?" Bob Meyer, President of the G.O., glances around the room, then seeing that there is no discussion, he says, "It has been moved and seconded that we recommend to the G.O. Dance committee that they sell Coca-cola at the G.O. Dances. All in favor say Aye."

"Aye."

"All opposed, Nay."

Thus through the Student Congress many important issues are decided.

In order to have equal representation each home room elects two representatives each year.

Much of the work of Congress functions through committees. The Building and Grounds Committee, headed by Malcolm Vail, reports to the Congress improvements for the school. They have made such rules as: no smoking beyond the flag pole; keeping bicycles in the racks; and keeping pupils off the lawns. The Pupil Activities Committee is headed by Kathryn Branch. The Home Room Guidance Committee under the chairmanship of Bettie Raugh sees that the minutes of each meeting of the Congress are read in all homerooms. The Tardiness Group, headed by Mary Vincent and Gerry Marsicano, announces which homerooms are to be excused from school on the last Friday of each month. The Assembly Committee reports whether the assemblies are ready to present.

The Student Congress tries to make M.H.S. a better high school, in which the students spend four years learning the ways of democracy.

B A N D

The High School Band has been with us for some fourteen years now. This year's sixty-five players have played in almost every assembly—even if they have not accompanied the microorganisms and bird life—and so have had a good chance to make themselves known to the entire student body. And equally familiar is Mr. C. A. Miller, whose lively exhortations to the Band did not begin 'till this autumn.

Of the many changes wrought by Mr. Miller, one is perhaps unique in band construction—the inclusion of three baritone instruments to give the whole band a deeper tone. And Mr. Miller always has the concert marches played at a brisk pace. "Got to get 'em stirred up," he says. Furthermore, he believes that contrast is as essential to music as to painting.

But the foremost of Mr. Miller's theories can be described as a belief in fitting the program to the general level. Though solo work is broad in scope, no selections are undertaken which are beyond the ability of any member of the band—at least not without giving long hours of training and practice. So the band has advanced in musical skill as a group. This is seen, for example, in the way in which the members have improved their sight-reading.

But while remembering the band members, Mr. Miller by no means forgets the tastes of the audience. He lays stress on entertainment rather than education. "A gentleman," Mr. Miller believes, "doesn't try to impose his ideas on somebody else."

Yet more classical music has been played this year than previously. The Band, under Mr. Miller, has increased three-fold the amount of both classical and popular music played.

ORCHESTRA

From Tchaikowsky to Victor Herbert is the range and ability of the orchestra of Manhasset High School. This year these musicians have succeeded for the first time in incorporating a much wider range of great composers and instruments, both brass and string, in their programs. They are always in demand, and enjoy being at the service of the school.

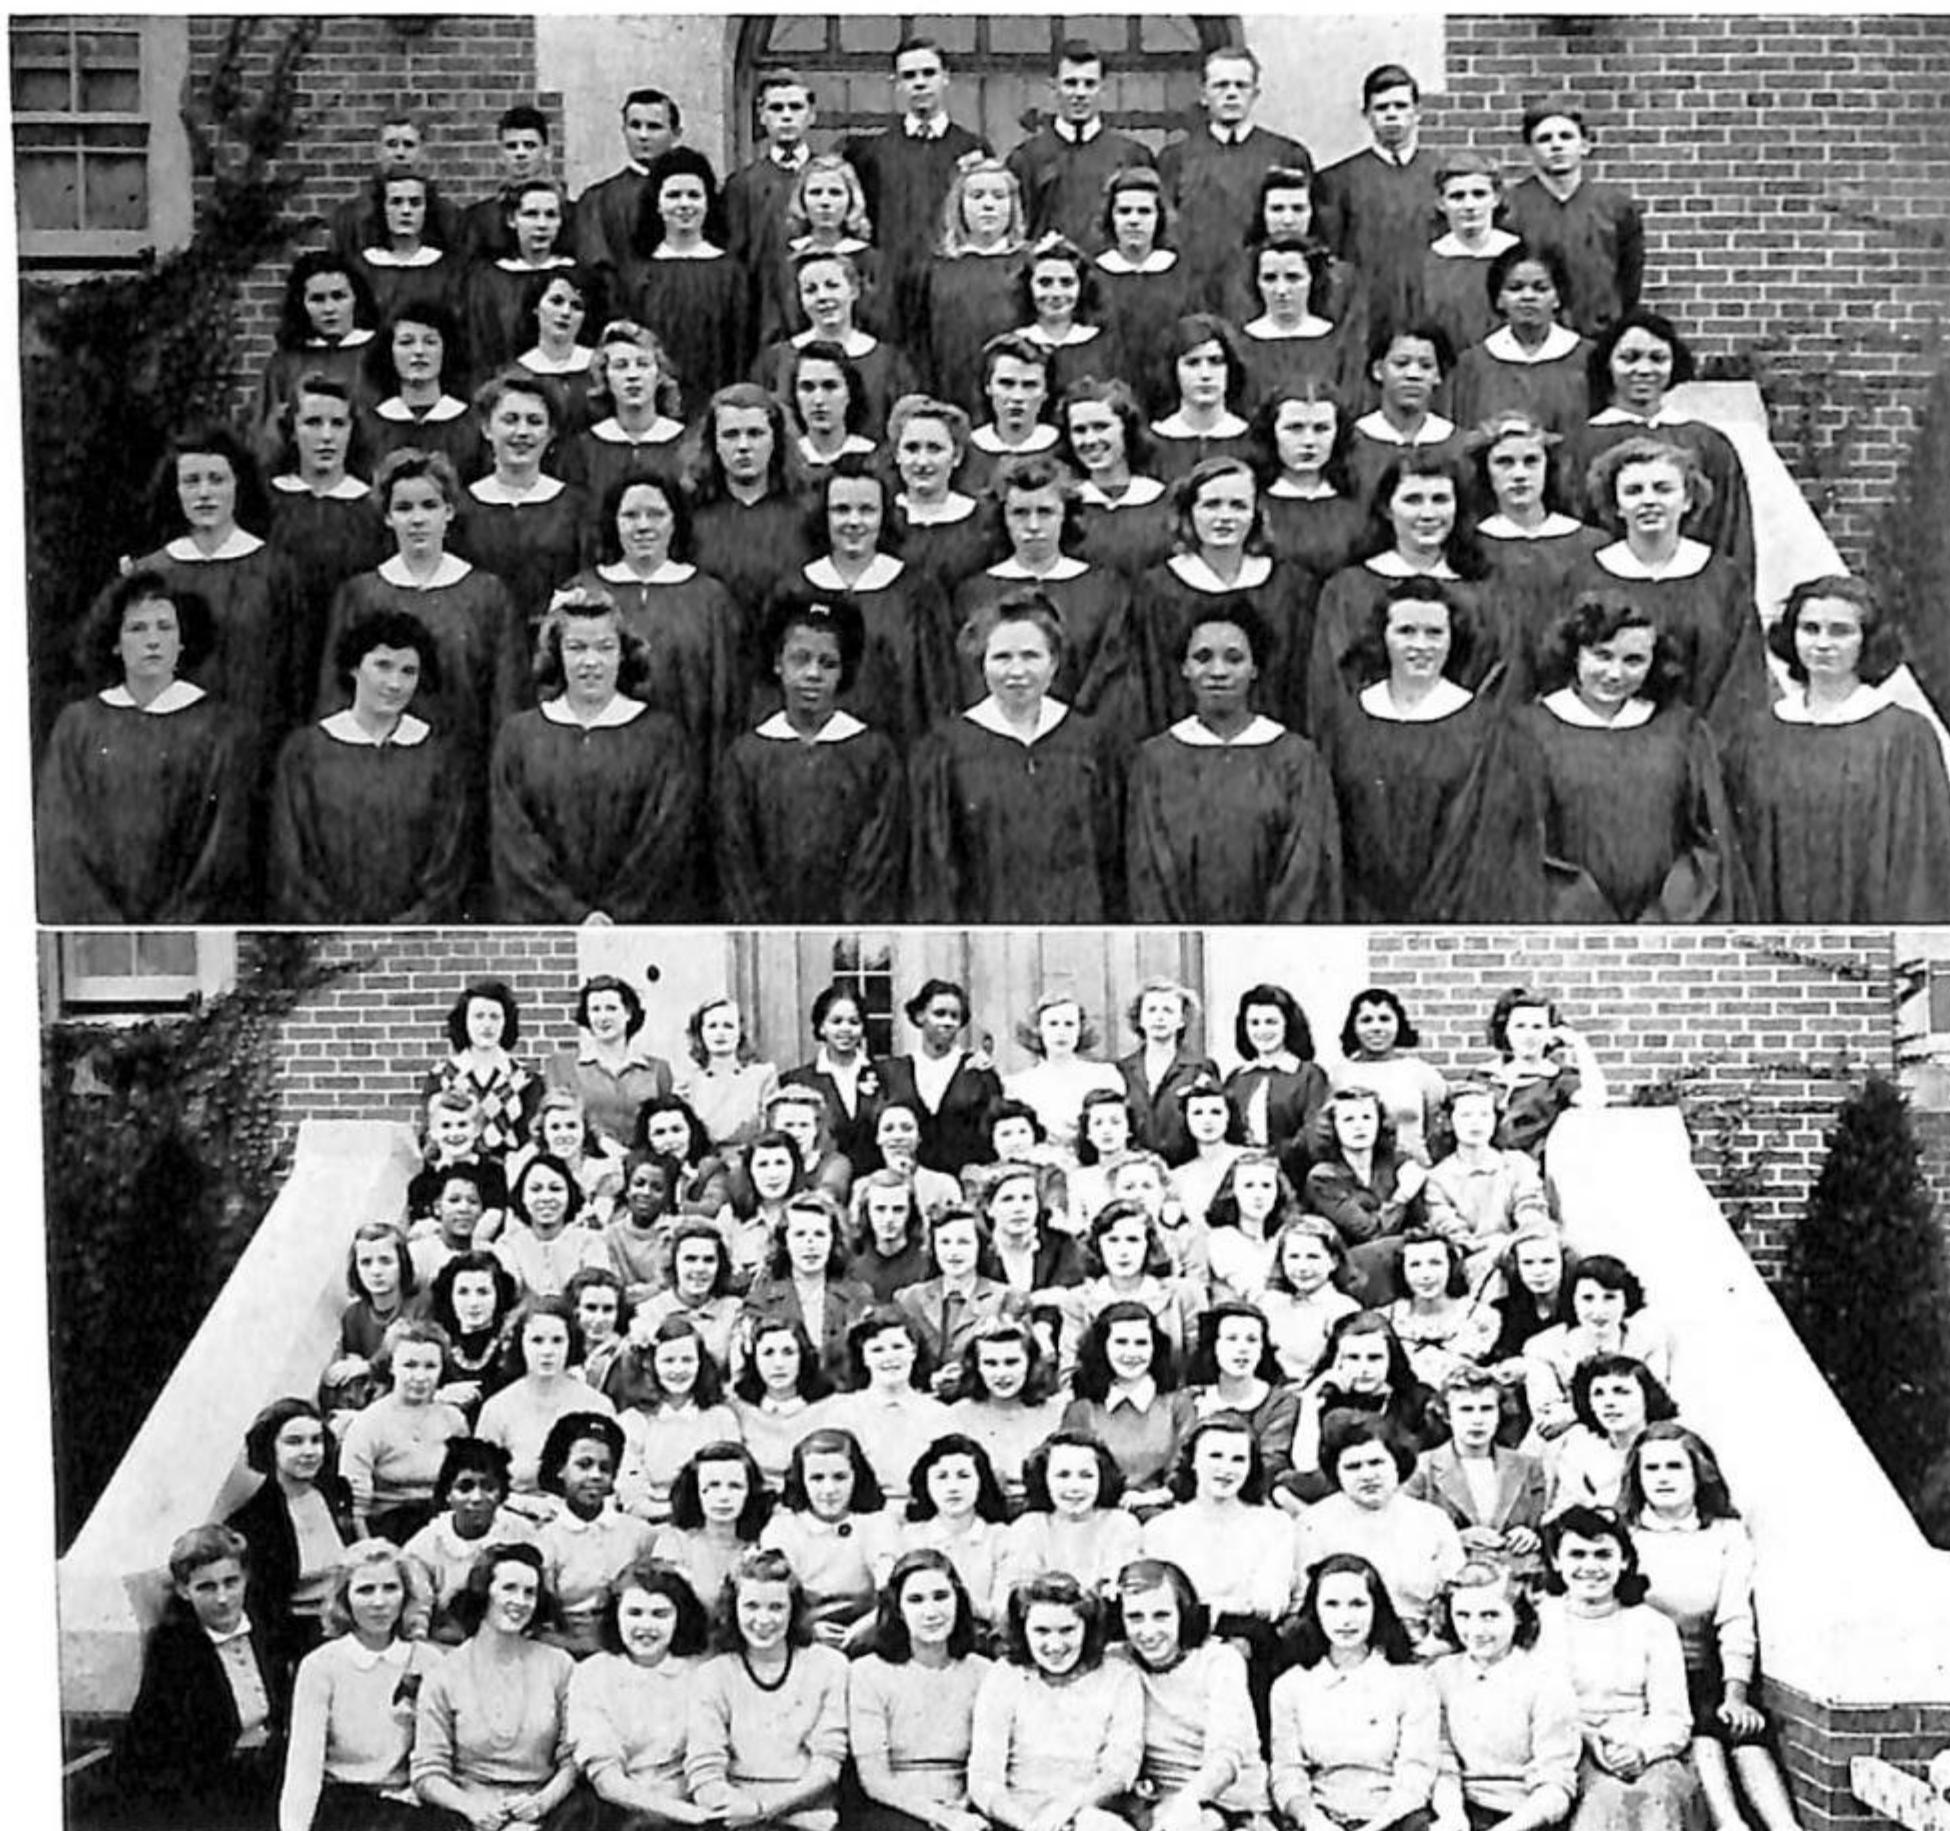

Their seemingly unending variety of selections is played at the beginning and end of school assemblies. Incidental music for plays, and music for special programs under the auspices of different departments, make the orchestra indispensable. For instance their "can-can" music helped to make our TOWER show a big success.

Pat Mullally, the orchestra's leading violinist, was the first student in the orchestra's history to act as concert master and student director.

This year has certainly made history! A few members from the orchestra were chosen to play in a "swing band" for the school's first radio show. This band made such an outstanding hit that it has become a fixed unit in school activities. Bob Bassett has proved that he can play not only football but also swing on his trombone as well.

The orchestra while practicing in the General Purpose room has had a great deal of trouble in making themselves heard against the competition of the men who are working on our new cafeteria and who bang and hammer incessantly.

Mr. C. Arthur Miller, who last fall took over the instrumental department, has tried to make the orchestra of Manhasset High more a part of the general school life. Mr. Miller believes that orchestral training should be in classic and semi-classical compositions. Therefore, with this in mind, we hear them play Tchaikowsky and Victor Herbert.

C H O R U S A N D C H O I R

"Without a song, the day would never end." Such is the motto of our effervescent choir. For many years it has catered to the musical tastes of Manhasset's students.

In February, the Manhasset High School choir, together with the orchestra and individual talent in the school, put on a Radio Show, which introduced a new type of entertainment to Manhasset. The proceeds of this successful production helped to pay for the flowing blue choir robes.

The choir was also active in the annual Christmas presentation. Tableaux were shown in the center of the stage and the Choral Speaking group on the left of the stage interpreted the scenes with passages from the Bible. The Choir lent appropriate musical selections. The candle-light procession of the Choir and the Choral Speaking group down the aisles of the auditorium, gave a beautiful and solemn effect.

The Manhasset High School Chorus, also under the direction of Miss Crance, affords an opportunity for students musically inclined to develop their talents more fully.

Much time is given to training individuals to sing with a group. Hence, each Tuesday and Thursday morning from nine until ten o'clock, the strains of popular melodies pour out of the doors and echo through the halls.

COLOR BEARERS

A S S E M B L Y C O M M I T T E E

Is everyone ready? Dim the lights! All actors behind curtains! These cries may be heard every Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock as Helen Wakem and her Assembly Previewers meet in the auditorium. It is their job to make sure that no play or show that is inadequate goes before the student body. When the TOWER intends to start its subscription campaign with a bangup vaudeville show, when an English class wants to present a play (don't forget "Blackout")—they must perform before the committee for approval. If you pass, you can be sure you are providing your fellow students with 45 minutes of good entertainment at the next Friday morning assembly.

The preview committee is composed of two pupils from each class, several faculty members, and faculty adviser, Miss Edna Crance. Without their approval you won't find yourself on the Manhasset High School stage.

At the opening of all Assembly programs Ernie Hansen, our heart throb, and Bill Gurney, our tenor, march out on the stage bearing the United States flag and Manhasset's school flag, accompanied by Malcolm "crew-cut" Vail and Johnnie "Baseball" McGuire. After the pledging of the flag and singing of the Star Spangled Banner, the show begins. After the curtain is drawn together and the applause dies a school song is sung, announcements are read and the assembly is dismissed.

Next year and the year after and the year after that, if you're still around applauding assemblies be sure to give some credit to the assembly committee, for when bigger and better programs are presented, you'll know why.

PUBLICATIONS

Every Tuesday and Thursday morning promptly at 9:05 the door to room 14, flanked on one side by Mr. Dawson, and on the other by Bud Moulton. The member of the editorial staff of the TOWER to enter the journalistic household first is Anne Curran assistant editor, who usually breezes in along with the refrains of "I Don't Want to Walk Without You" her theme song. Following closely are the various members of the editorial staff, pencil and paper in hand, ready to give the "ed" the impression that they're not doing history during TOWER period. Obie, Bargy and Malone, our harmony trio, make a beeline for their corner table to put their heads together over their new suggestions for the class will, plus a brand new arrangement of "Baby Mine." In a more quiet manner is the arrival of our chief artists, Mary Viktorin and Dale Ingvoldstad. Both girls carry huge "Buy a Tower" posters in their arms, dump their books, and go tearing out again, thumb tacks in mouth, to spread the word through the halls (to the evident discomfort of Anne Curran, who is trying to take the attendance.) Again the door opens and Bob Thompson barges in with his inseparable brief case, to retrieve silently to his seat by the window where he composes those catchy limericks which helped liven the Tower campaign. Swish, zoom - - - that was John D'Albora, photographic editor, who manages to cover the most space in the least possible time. When the whole staff is at last assembled, Bud, "This Tower must go to press," Moulton heaves a sigh of relief and embarks on the endless assignments awaiting him.

Across the hall, occupying room 12 is our business staff headed by Bill Pitt and Donald Sengstaken. Each morning part of its members, the car owners, drive into town to round-up ads for our publication with the usual morning pep talk—the remaining few tackle the problem of soliciting subscribers.

Although the TOWER is run with the greatest amount of freedom its members are energetic and sincere in their efforts to make it a success. Together Bud Moulton, editor-in-chief, and his staff have worked incessantly to attain this goal.

TOWER STAFF

Typewriters click madly above the sound of audible brain work busy editorialists scribble and erase with equal fury, and Bill Von Lackum, editor-in-chief, nervously paces the floor of room 21, in the mad frenzy preceding the Friday deadline for our school publication, the Cub Reporter. In the midst of this scene of activity enters Bobo McMahon, assistant editor, pencil in hand, ready to tackle the fifteen odd assignments that have failed to come in during the week from the less aggressive members of the staff. Up in the front of the room, Helen Wakem, editorial editor, divides her time between heckling Mr. Sackman and Mr. Kirsch, the Cub's walking dictionary, and writing copy and heads in her own inimitable manner.

At this point, Betty McKenna always seems to wander over to the windows and—yep, there she goes—“Hey, kids, look. There’s Dick Herzer talking to three girls!” How’s that for “We Notice?” The response is terrific. Half the Cub staff rush to the windows to view the unusual sight. To a passerby the picture of six or seven heads hanging out of Mrs. Force’s windows, peering intently at one object is not only slightly mystifying but also comical.

The appearance of Mr. Dawson, faculty adviser, immediately disperses our window-gazing group and until as late as six o’clock each individual continues to work relentlessly at his or her particular assignment.

The Cub staff this year is considerably smaller than preceding years, and therefore a greater burden of responsibility has been placed on the shoulders of Bill Von Lackum and Bobo McMahon. Together they have struggled to make the Cub a success and we of the Tower believe they deserve a great deal of credit.

CUB REPORTER STAFF

SILVER "M" SOCIETY

Silver "M" Society

To belong to the Silver "M" Society is a great honor which only a few seniors achieve each year.

Anyone is eligible to try; the chances are as good for one student as another if he is willing to do extra-curricular work. Library work, or office work, athletics, holding class offices, Tower or Cub Reporter are all means of obtaining Silver "M" credit. The more work you do the more credit you get, as points are given according to the amount of work done by the individual.

Each June a group of promising students from the junior class is pledged as prospective members but that doesn't mean that other students won't make the Society. Senior year affords many chances for earning credits. Membership is conferred on graduates at commencement exercises.

PROCTORS

Throughout the day, perform valuable service to the school. The members of the squad are carefully selected from a group of applicants. The Proctors also supervise the school grounds during the noon hour.

Under the leadership of Fred Maguire and Glen Raffensperger, faculty adviser, the Proctors at their weekly meetings discuss problems concerning their police work at Manhasset High.

When a Proctor feels that a pupil needs to be disciplined, he places the offender's name in "the box," located in the school office.

The library proctor system, formed this year, aids in operating the library smoothly.

SERVICE SQUAD

to office work. The student who takes on the work of library assistant develops responsibility and initiative, thus preparing him for more difficult tasks in the future.

Through our office workers additional clerical help is given to the school office, and in return all Service Squad members have a choice between receiving school credit or Silver M credit.

The purpose of the Library Council, developed this year, is to discuss more efficient methods of improving library functions. Mrs. Edna Savoya is the faculty adviser for the library service squad.

Membership in the Service Squad is on a purely voluntary basis. The services given by the students range from library responsibility and initiative, thus preparing him for more difficult tasks in the future.

HALL PROCTORS

SERVICE SQUAD

CHEFS CLUB

The main idea of the Chef Club is to show the close ratio between chemistry and cooking. Bo Gregory was the chief chef for the first half year, the position now is held by Dick Herzer. It has met once a week on Thursday for the past year under the supervision of the late Miss Moulton and now under Miss Kay.

The club has given many dinners and among them was a roast beef dinner with all the trimmings. They honored several faculty members by extending an invitation to attend.

HOSTESS CLUB

The Hostess Club, which consists of girls, was not to be outdone by the boys' club. They have been sewing for the Red Cross and making up boxes of cookies for our boys in uniform. This club was the first to get the idea of an auxiliary Motor Corps in the school. They have also taken complete charge of the fashion shows given by the Simplicity Pattern Company.

The Hostess Club, whose president is Jane De Van, has met every second Monday after school. The chief idea of this club is to assist other clubs and activities in our school.

During this school term many of Manhasset High's pupils have derived much pleasure from the Chef and Hostess Clubs.

CAMERA CLUB

Among the many accomplishments of the Camera Club are the application photograph of seniors applying for job-experience, and also the pictures of the Motor Corps. Another achievement is the making of a new dark-room in the Tower, so that there are two dark-rooms. The one at the end of the student-activity room will be used for beginners; while the new one in the Tower will contain an enlarger for the more experienced photographers.

Mr. Elmer Filsinger, faculty adviser, feels proud of the fact that club members have carried on their activities faithfully and efficiently without regular meetings.

AUDIO VISUAL AIDS

The Audio-Visual Aids department is under the supervision of Mr. Adolph Wulff. The department has been divided into two divisions, each under a student leader: cinema club, under the direction of John D'Albora; and the other the technical supervision of the projection room, the sage and the sound equipment by Bill Meyer.

M.H.S. could not get along without this much needed department. They have a long list of accomplishments; they take movies of school in session; providing sound equipment for noonday dancing; they set up revolving blue, yellow and red lights that lend color to proms—and take it away from human faces; they make announcements at football games and they provide all lighting for plays.

In the projection room at least one person is on duty during each period. He has the responsibility of showing movies during that period. For assemblies there are at least two people in charge.

THE FRENCH CLUB

Those harmonious strains that were heard echoing throughout the halls of M.H.S. on the last day before Christmas vacation, undoubtedly came from the petite French Club headed by "Madam" Hare. Anna May Kief, the president, presides at the meetings: mind you, all speaking is in French. Consequently only very simple phrases are heard here and there.

RED CROSS KNITTERS

Knit 2, purl 2; go 10 inches up, then start purling; there goes that stitch, running down, down inexorably. "Ah, there, I knew it," says a dismal-looking girl, struggling in a tangle of wool, needles, and tape measures. Then with the air of resigned stoicism, she rips the half-finished sweater and catches that naughty stitch with a sigh of satisfaction.

This is a very common sight, but it applies specifically to Manhasset girls who are knitting for Junior Red Cross. I do not mean that all knitting is as messy and arduous as some girls think it is, especially when the muffler turns out wavy and knotty or the sweater looks sort of awkward around the armholes, but still one must have stamina to go unperturbed through inches and inches of knitting, casting on, purling, catching stitches, dropping stitches, and casting off.

But no one can deny that there is at least a great satisfaction in knowing that one has turned raw material into a finished product; and what is more, that product will bring comfort and happiness to many in far-away countries. Two hundred to four hundred articles will go out at the end of the school year, and the quality of the work is just as good as the amount.

STUDENT DEFENSE COUNCIL

With the wailing of "Elmer," the air-raid siren, which the students named at a memorable assembly soon after the United States declared war, every student knows exactly where he or she is to go to be safe from the bombs dropped on all-too-vulnerable Long Island. Through the newly set up student defense council plans have been drawn up, with the help of the Board of Education, for every room in the school, so that the student, white-faced and grave, knows exactly where to go in case of an air raid.

An Auxiliary Motor Corps of thirty-four girls has also been set up in the school, under the direction of Madame Hare. It is the duty of the Auxiliary Motor Corps to take messages given to them by Manhasset's Motor Corps Unit, either directly to the place designated or to one of the many boy messengers who are on duty at all times during the air raids. This Auxiliary Unit gave students an opportunity to take a series of safe-driving tests, and First Aid classes. Patrolman Burns, of Manhasset's sixth precinct, gave his time in teaching the students the necessary fundamentals of safe driving. The Auxiliary Motor Corps First-Aid class was held bright and early on Saturday mornings with Mrs. Worcester teaching.

Through this training the students have not only had experiences which will help them in war time, but they have also learned something which will remain with them for the rest of their lives. Manhasset High School students have done their best to do their part in the present emergency.

RED CROSS MOTOR CORPS

There is no need to mention here that it was not long after Pearl Harbor before both men and women were organizing and learning to be of assistance in all possible ways. And Manhasset girls, no less than their mothers, were soon learning to care for the victims of future battles of land, sea, and air.

It was, specifically, in January that the Manhasset branch of the Red Cross Motor Corps was organized. Lessons were set for Tuesday night, others for Thursday night, and still others for Saturday morning. On all these dates, consequently, young women are to be seen in the gym (or sometimes in the general purpose room or study hall) binding the hypothetical wounds of any who would consent to be hypothetically injured, extinguishing hypothetical bombs and otherwise helping in hypothetical battles and air raids. After ten of these lessons they take a first-aid test, success in which entitles them to membership in the corps and to the wearing of its badge. Their training probably would not go to waste even in time of peace, but they have already been seen in our practice blackouts and air-raids, keeping people off the streets and otherwise assisting in the administration of these preparations.

ART AND POSTER CLUBS

The second year of the Art Club's brief existence has differed from its first. Rather than admit all applicants regardless of ability or talent, prospective artists took a series of tests designed to give to Miss Dominge, Art Club sponsor, and to last year's officers, a means of determining the varying degrees of talent. Students who passed the examination became pledges and were put through a short initiation. In February, exams were held again for those who were unable to join earlier in the year. President of the Art Club is Gloria Christensen; Vice-President, Betty Lou Milliken; and Secretary, Mary Jane Baker.

The Art Club was responsible for the exhibit shown in the lobby of the Manhasset Theatre during the Christmas holidays. Also, several of the Club's members entered contests held by Lord and Taylor, Scholastic Magazine, and various art schools. In the spring and fall, Art Club members held sketching parties back of the school, where, after hamburgers and cokes, they used the scenery as the subject of their charcoal drawings.

The Poster Club is the answer to the Art Department's fervent prayer. When "Stranny" asks for half a dozen football posters, the Poster Club furnishes them without a quiver. The basketball, lacrosse, and baseball posters are products of their industry, too. The Radio Show provided an opportunity for the Club's members to do their bit toward making it a success. Dances, too, would suffer, if it were not for the Poster Club.

THE BIRD - BANDING CLUB

Often Mr. Miller's biology class will cease for a moment its study of the love life of the paramecium when some bright-looking young gentleman brings in a trap containing some poor towhee or brown thrush. Then, amid gasps of sympathy from some of the feminine members of the class, Mr. Miller takes out of a box a small metal band, writes something down in a book, clasps the band on the bird's leg and allows him to fly out the window.

The something he writes down is the number on the band. This record he sends to Washington where numbers are sent in from bird-banding clubs all over the country—recording both bands put on and those taken off. Thus something is learned of the birds' habits and routes of migration. Manhasset's bird-banding club of twenty-one students banded this year about four hundred birds, approximately three-fourths of them in the autumn. This number places it in the upper fifteen per cent of all the bird-banding clubs.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB

"Where is the extension? Now . . . let's see Symphony No. 5 in A minor . . . get that needle . . . Miss Crance, is the board out?"

Swallowing a plum and lifting the victrola, Anna May Kief and Dick Barker followed by Dick Colhein and Edythe Posteraro go rushing into the auditorium to fix the records and perform another of those Monday interludes, called "Midday Symphonies." The purpose of these programs is to give a selection of good classic records to the music lovers of Manhasset. They are held every Friday at 12:35 p.m. Anna May Kief is the president; and Dick Barker, the secretary-treasurer; Edythe Posteraro, the publicity manager. Every member has given a midday symphony in which he played records of his own choosing.

G. O. D A N C E C O M M I T T E E

Bills, bands, dough, and most essential, our young ladies' beaux, are worries that the head committee man, Ernie Hansen puts up with before each G.O. Dance. Besides being chairman of the committee Ernie scurries around stirring up such orchestras as Charlie O'Neil's and Club Esquire, which had something to do with the big turnout of the January 30 dance.

Dot Garrick instead of spiking the punch with water this year braved all obstacles and turned up with coke which was sold for the first time at the First G.O. Dance of the year. Although the sale of coke was a big success, the boys at the dance left with pockets empty, explaining to their dates that since they must be home early, they would have to go straight home.

Student Congress limited expenditures for the G.O. Dance because of defense casting a shadow on "Jeff Fleer's" troubles as treasurer and secretary. Last but not least, Mr. Miller the committee adviser willingly aided the racked nerves of Bev Lipsett, head of advertising, and Betty McKenna, heading the social committee.

The final dance of the year was the most exciting because the outcome of the election for G.O. officers was announced. Since the presidency of the G.O. is the most important office in the school a large crowd turned out for the dance. The first dance of the year is also planned so that the results of the class elections may be announced.

Since G.O. dances have been under the supervision of a special committee they have greatly improved over the old days, when they were, more or less, hit and miss.

S P O R T S

OUR COACHES

For the best idea of Manhasset High life the one place to look is the gym and athletic fields. The Cub and Tower, the classrooms, and the tree all go to make up M.H.S. but are less popular among students than sports. Our coaches are responsible for the coordination of athletics. The Physical Education Department is headed by Rex M. Cate and is aided by Mr. Jason Stranahan and Miss Henrietta R. Gerkin. Since there is such a wide variety of boys sports, several teachers also act as coaches in their spare time.

In the realm of boys' sports it is hard to say which is the most popular. This year's sensational football team was the pride of everyone in the school, especially "Stranny," who deserves a great deal of the credit for the success. "Stranny" also coached the lacrosse team of which the school was equally proud. Mr. Cate coached the basketball team and baseball.

For the minor sports not ranked as varsity sports the Sagamore League was formed in February 1939. A plaque is awarded to the school compiling the most points during the year. Manhasset has won the plaque once and has tied for first place once. Among the sports in the Sagamore League are volley ball, wrestling, tennis and soccer.

No one will forget our soccer team for a long time. The boys didn't win but they never lost hope either. Mr. Sackman patiently practiced every afternoon with the team and died a thousand deaths during games. But it was his spirit along with that of the team that kept them smiling even in defeat.

Sport Night is the all-important contest of the year. This year the Blue Team came through victoriously in one of the closest battles in history. The girls have abandoned the varsity system and have found their honor team system to be much more efficient.

Field hockey, basketball, lacrosse, volleyball, softball, and archery are but a few sports offered the sturdier females of M.H.S.

There is not enough room here to go into all the sports of M.H.S. even briefly. As you read through the next few pages, we hope you will find pleasure in remembering the happy hours you have spent playing on the various teams, cheering in the bleachers with all your heart for your team. Sports are a definite part of Manhasset life and this is a fact which cannot be ignored in making up a typical picture of Manhasset High.

F O O T B A L L

At the outset of the '41 season, Manhasset hopes for a successful team were very dim as only four veterans returned. However, coming through in a true Manhasset style, the varsity eleven won 5 out of its 7 contests, dropping only one game and one tie to two non-conference teams. Undefeated in county contests, the team won the Sagamore League title, the Class B crown of Nassau County, and was considered one of Manhasset's mightiest teams in recent years, if not in its entire history.

The team's success was due to two reasons, the exceptional coaching of Mr. Stranahan and the general spirit. These two factors combined to secure the close wins over Oyster Bay, Farmingdale, and Roslyn and to make possible the routs of East Rockaway and Garden City. Manhasset was from ten to twenty-five pounds a man lighter than each of its opponents. Though outweighed in the Poly battle, Manhasset was not outfought and deserve great respect for their game fight. They played their first game of the year against the mammoth Lindenhurst men at one touchdown a piece. For the whole second half, a rugged, driving, but inexperienced Manhasset eleven charged and outdrove the non-conference Lindenhurst squad. The score board showed a tie but Manhasset showed that they had won a moral victory.

Teamwork, and not individual play, was a symbol of the entire '41 schedule. Credit certainly should be given to triple-threat Ernest Hansen, whose steady playing of clean, hard ball marked every game, and made him a member of the all-Nassau County Football Squad. The symbols of the '41 team, teamwork and fight, are best expressed in the person of Robert Bassett. His aggressiveness and ability acted as a challenge to the opposition and as an incentive to his own team.

Climaxing the close of this year's season was a banquet given in honor of the entire squad. It was stated there that the '41 squad had established a tradition for the oncoming teams. That statement is true because of the fight, grit and drive shown by the entire squad and as exemplified by Coach Stranahan.

As spring returns to Manhasset High School, Lacrosse returns with it. Although the first practice may be a few weeks away, beginners and old veterans will be seen getting in trim by practicing in the parking space during noon hours and after school every day. Finally, after a week of bouncing lacrosse balls off a collection of windshields and nice shining (?) cars, a notice is sent around announcing "that all lacrosse will cease in the parking area" — and the official first day of practice is moved a day or so ahead.

With nine lettermen back from the 1942 squad, the Indians were once again looking forward to a successful season and have high hopes of winning the Long Island Metropolitan Championship. Included in these nine were George Day and Bob Bassett, who were elected unanimously co-captains of this year's team.

Judging from the performance of the first game with Sewanaka, the Indians seemed to have captured the genuine fighting spirit of the previous teams. The reason for this belief is that at the end of the first quarter the score was 5-0, in M.H.S.'s favor. However, this lead seemed to have given the stickmen too much self assurance, for by the end of the quarter Sewanaka scored five to our one, thus ending the half at 6-5, still our favor. The team's faults being pointed out by "Stranny" during the half time, the Indians again went forth with that fighting spirit of the first quarter. With this in mind, during the last two quarters, the team left the field with an 11-6 victory. Five of these goals were made by Ernie Hansen, the midfield man, two by Dave Hunt and Bob Meyer, and one each by Ben Evans and Lonnie Dorr. Although these fellows did the actual scoring, credit should equally be given to George Day, Bob Bassett, Malcolm Vail, Phil Stuart, Bob Simmons, Kieran Vincent, Artie De Lapp, Phil Smyth, Wardie Wright, and other members of the team not mentioned.

B A S K E T B A L L

With Mr. Cate back again as coach after a two-year absence, the Manhasset basketball team came within a hair's breadth of capturing the North Shore League championship this year.

The team started off with a winning streak. Taking eight out of the first ten games, the Indians' attack seemed invincible, rolling up scores of 45 and 50 points against some of the strongest teams on the North Shore. But just as it seemed as if nothing could stop the team from the title, they were defeated in their second contest with Mineola. The game was hard fought all the way, and the lead see-sawed back and forth all night until in the last 30 seconds of play Mineola put in a basket to win by 2 points. This game seemed to take something out of the boys, for they were beaten in succession by Garden City and Glen Cove, the latter winning the championship and leaving Manhasset in a tie for second place with Garden City.

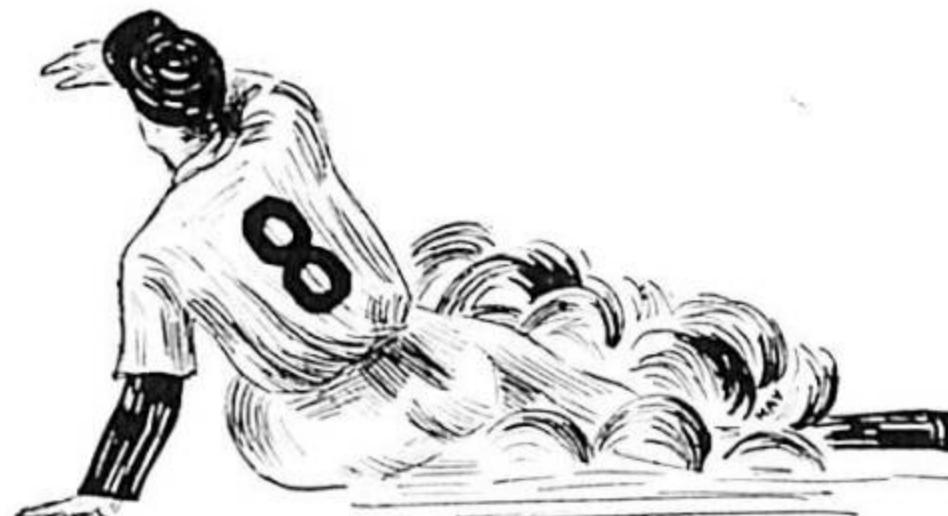

Coach Cate used Ernie Hansen, Joe Podbielski and Willie Haughwaut, the three regulars from last year's quintet, to form a nucleus for this year. Monk Miller, a varsity player, from Sea Cliff's team of last season, and Ed Sanson, filled out the first five. Alternating with one or the other of the starters were Lonnie Dorr, Art DeLapp and Tony Contino.

Mr. Cate used throughout the season a man-to-man defense, finding it very effective against the other clubs. The offensive was highlighted by brilliant shooting by all members of the team, Joe Podbielski, being the high scorer for the season. In one game he scored 22 points.

Manhasset can look to next year's team with optimism, as the returning material has obtained much experience from this year's playing.

Although the 1942 baseball outlook of M.H.S. has not been affected by the draft, Coach Rex Cate is faced with the problem of taking a few veterans and most of last year's J. V. and welding them into a winning team. As this book goes to press, the diamond heroes of Manhasset are about to embark upon another Sagamore League race with high hopes of winding up at the top of the loop.

Perhaps it would be best to analyze the team by positions and thereby emphasize the weak and strong points of the '42 aggregation. This year's twirling staff has but two outstanding members, "Andy Paturzo" and "Jack Halloran." These two right-handers must bear the brunt of the pitching burden. Behind the plate is Dave Cornish in his first year at M.H.S., while the infield will probably be made up of the veteran "Ed Sanson," at first base, his brother Bob Sanson at second, Kenny Beckendorf, another second-year man at shortstop, and either Ralph Troiano or young Frank Halloran at the hot corner. Patrolling the outfield will be Don McCarthy in left, Dick Herzer or Joe Pisciotto in center, and Phil Shea or John McGuire in right. With effective pitching and timely hitting, this 1942 team can well be the dark-horse of the Sagamore League.

SOCER TEAM

S O C C E R T E A M

When asked for an interview, Willy Lancaster, the only member of the Soccer team who could play with his glasses without which he cannot see, said that the Soccer team had delegated him to keep this article out of the Tower. However, the team wasn't that bad, so here is the article.

Soccer has been played in Manhasset for only three years. During this time the team has never won but has often tied their games. The most exciting event of the season was when "Pitty", after being kicked by one of his own team members, left the field with a broken nose.

The war has taken its share of Soccer players. Two members of the team have left school to join the armed forces. Frank Aleck, captain of the team and high scorer of the season, joined the Coast Guard in New Orleans. While Sherman Eagan went to the naval training station in Newport, Rhode Island and is now in California.

SIX MAN FOOTBALL

As the football season rolled around, our boys of the eighth, ninth, and tenth grades had a good time with six-man football. The names of the teams have changed slightly this year under the following captains: Yellow, Ray Gorman; Blue, Tony Brewster; Black, William Martin; Red, Charles Gregory. The Read team this year came through victoriously.

Mr. Calus Hoffman continued his job as coach until the army called for his services. Mr. Luther Kirsch then took Mr. Hoffman's place and continued doing a fine job with the boys. Six-man football has always held the interest of the younger boys and will always continue to be an interesting game.

"Bat that ball, George." "Hey, butter-fingers!" "Over the net not under lug." Such is the divine patter that issues forth from the fair walls of Manhasset's gymnasium. As one may gather Volley Ball is in progress. This magnetic sport attracts not only the all-hallowed Seniors such as George Day, Malcolm Vail, Fred Maguire, John McGuire, Bob Billheimer, Bill Pitt, Bob Meyer and Kenny Stevenson but also some representatives of the Under-class-men.

The mighty six, which incidently is the number of men that makes up a team have had a rather uneventful year, with the exception of the Farmingdale game which was their one victory.

W R E S T L I N G

Brawny torsos being hurled through the air at the amazing speed of 40 miles per hour, was the typical match between our wrestling champions. "Watch that hammer lock!" "Ugh, what a bear grip!"

Since the Poly Prep match is an unmentionable subject, we now approach the inter-mural matches. Man-mountain Phil Stewart in the 165 pound class of grapplers, wrestled with sugar-foot Hansen. After a long period of time Stewart broke through victorious. Dan Cornish far surpassed the other 95 pounders. His knowledge and experience made it easy for him to overpower the rest of his class.

This year's number of prospective wrestlers far exceeded last year's turnout, with such Seniors as George Day, Dave Cornish, and Jack Tuckwood, and their equally good under-classmen, Phil Stewart, John Evans and and Ernie Hansen.

Even though wrestling is a comparatively new sport to Manhasset High, it is highly popular and enthusiastically received.

TENNIS

Feverishly dashing from backline to net Dave Elmore, star tennis player of the year, won his set, 13-11, in a match against Port Washington High. Coach Stewart Palmer points with pride to Dave, who during his first set, played the longest inter-scholastic set that was played in Long Island competition. Bill Von Lackum playing the number three slot, won his first set 6-3, lost the second 3-6 but returned to gain victory in the third set, 6-2. Jim Smiley, playing number one position, finally acknowledged his defeat, only after two hard-hitting sets.

Workouts needed to keep Gayne Rescher, Dick Barker, David Whetstone, Bob Mabbs, and Jim Fairchild in trim are held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, watched over by their able coach, Stewart Palmer.

PING PONG

Everyone knows about that dazzling game, which is crammed with slices, curves, slams, and rapidity. Yes, it is Ping-Pong. To the average Manhasset High School student, ping-pong holds a particular interest both inside and outside of school. Every year there is a large turnout for this sport. Ed. Beckman headed the boys' ping-pong team this season. A tour to some neighboring schools was made again this year to give the team a chance to show their skill. Although the season was not too successful, the boys won several games, and all are enthusiastic about a better team next year.

PING-PONG TEAM

GIRL'S ATHLETIC COUNCIL

GIRLS SPORTS

In 1938 the fair sex of M.H.S., tired of being overshadowed by the boys in athletics, organized the Girl's Athletic Association. The purpose of the association is to co-ordinate the activities of the girls and encourage more girls to go out for more sports.

The governing body of the association is the Girl's Athletic Council, better known as the "Amazonian Council." Every Wednesday at noon "Bo" McMahon frantically tries to corral her gang long enough to hold a meeting. At these meetings, amid sandwiches and milk bottles, fifteen girls that represent every sport in M.H.S. discuss their individual problems and any other problem that affects the association.

Every year the major difficulty confronting the Council has been how to explain the point system. Some girl, who prefers to remain anonymous, invented this system, and no one has ever been able to figure it out. This year's council has accomplished this task better than any of its predecessors, provided by the fact that there was only one case of insanity when the points were filed. Another step forward was taken this year when new gym suits were ordered. No longer do the girls hide when they must wear a gym suit. Now they may parade in the latest-model play suit. "Save material for defense" is their theme. Needless to say this is approved by everyone.

The biggest event of the year, in the realm of sports, is "Sports Night." Each year Sports Night is run under the supervision of the council. The two-color captains this year are Pat Malone and Betty Jean Fleer representing the Blue and Orange teams respectively. With the aid of Miss Gerkin and the head of Athletics, these two girls made this year's Sports Night the most successful one in history. The competition between the teams was at fever pitch, but after the Blues had won, things calmed down and rivals became the best of pals. Though we may be at each others' throats on Sports Night, I'd like to see what would happen if any outsider ever said a thing against M.H.S.

A boy's great ambition is to be a football or basketball hero but the thrill of a girl's life is to attain that hard fought for honor that of a cheerleader. Fatigue and aching muscles is the price you have to pay if you ever expect to be out in front of the crowds cheering but ask anyone of this year's seven cheerleaders if the price they paid was too great. During football season you grab your lunch as you dash out the door and usually you just get there in time to give a good hearty cheer for the boys on the field. The same thing happens in the basketball season, only it's hot sizzling steaks and apple pie that we leave with our mouths watering but we'd rather miss this dinner any day than the opening cheer at a game.

Cheerleaders share victory and defeat just as the boys do and if a game is won they attribute it in part to their cheering that day. But in the darkest hours the cheerleaders fought to the end still hoping for victory.

Many a lunch hour has been spent wracking our brains to make up new cheers and perfect them. These cheers and the lusty voices of the cheering section have pulled our team to victory many times.

That sextet of lovely girls: Pat Malone, Angie Watson, Martha Harris, Joanne Callis, Dot Schmitz, and Helen Wakem in their blue and orange uniforms with their captain Betty Jo Anderson have labored through victory and defeat.

O U T I N G C L U B

Don't forget your lunch! I hope the weather is good! How much money shall I bring? Such utterances may be heard coming from the gym on weekday afternoons during the meetings of the Outing Club. This group made up of thirty or more girls is headed by Bunny Boyce, and Miss Gerken, faculty adviser. Together they plan hikes, picnics, initiations for new members, bicycle trips, sailing excursions and many sports according to the season. The climax of the year's activities came when a few selected members went on a three-day skiing trip to Jug End Barn, near Great Barrington, Mass.

"En garde!" "Parry!" Betty Lou Milliken gracefully places her foil in the required position, then throws herself on the attack. Parrying furiously, Alice Heimerdinger withdraws on the platform and Barbara Boos and Joan MacDonald view critically the whole scene, ready to detect any foul.

This quick-action movie takes place any time after three o'clock on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the gym.

The head of fencing is Betty Lou Milliken and the other poised and daring women athletes who participated in the Blue team fencing victory at Sports Night were: Betty Edson, Lucy March, and Renée Lane.

The team has been a good one this year, and Betty Edson hopes to lead it successfully in 1943.

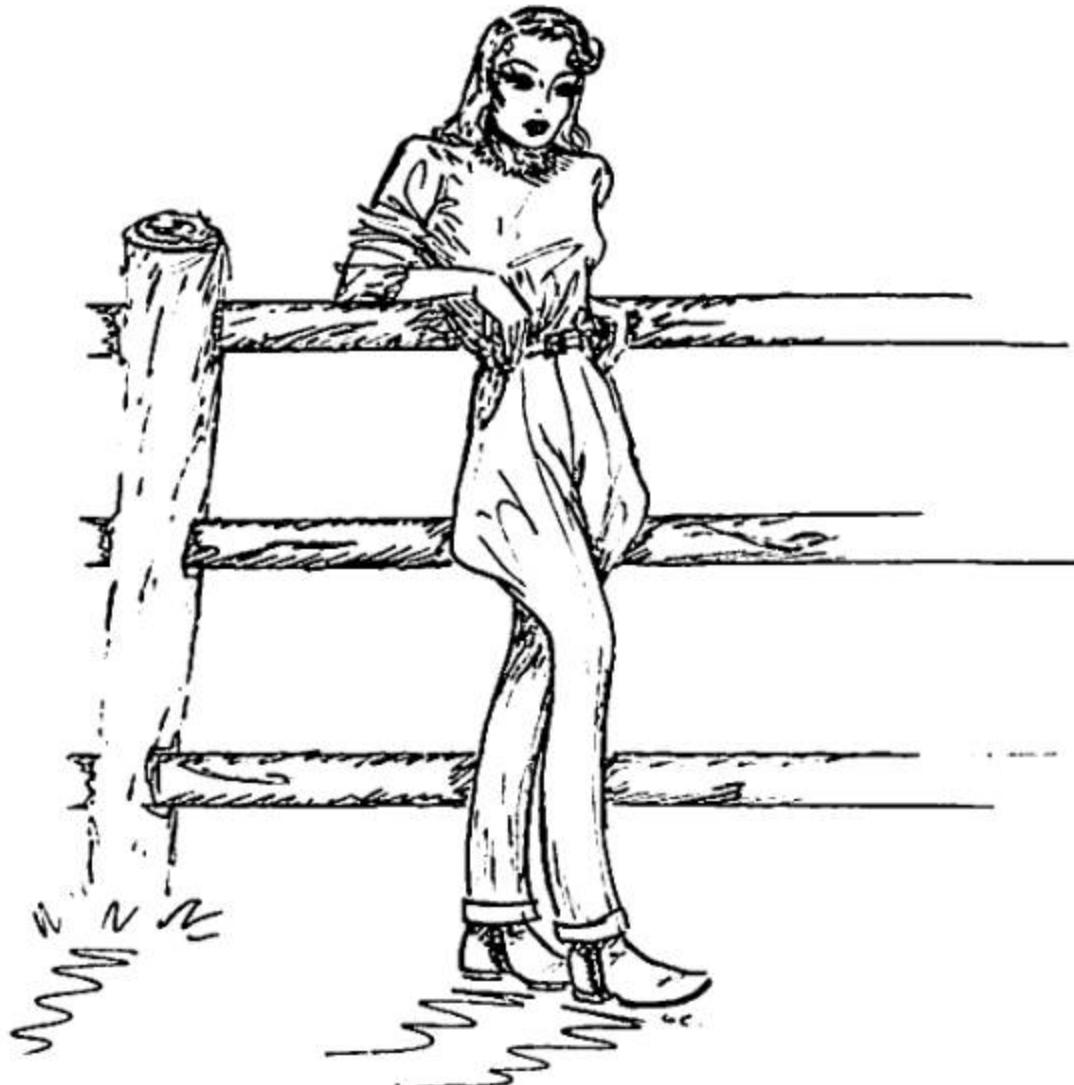

R I D I N G

Bumps and bruises surprisingly enough were not quite so evident this year as in previous years.

This winter under Miss Bellinger's care and the organization of Corine Sieck Manhasset equestriennes galloped over the fields on fair steeds twice a week, one group for the beginners and another for the advanced riders. When the balmy spring came, the two combined and meandered over the field together.

There was at one time talk about an interscholastic show with other schools nearby but the plans did not develop.

All in all the year was successful, with no mishaps involved.

P I N G P O N G

Ping Pong practice started for the girls of Manhasset High when April first made its entrance on their lengthy sports calendar. Every Tuesday and Wednesday you could find three neat little tables lined up in the boys' side of the gym or in the general purpose room. There also you would see the team's captain, Betty Bishop, with several other of Manhasset's star girl athletes, such as Pat Rock, getting ready to put the finishing touches on that well-known little white ball. The ping pong team had a tournament not so long ago, and one look at their proud faces was all you needed to learn the truth on how well they fared.

Volleyball is one of the most exciting sports in which the girls of M.H.S. participate. Every Tuesday and Thursday, if you look into the gym, you'd find twenty-five bee-yoo-ti-ful girls swatting that little ball around.

The girls all took part in the Volleyball Play Day and the Volleyball Supper, which is held immediately afterwards. For this Play Day and Supper, approximately four volleyball teams from other schools are asked over. When the Play Day is over and the scores have been calculated, they are announced during the supper. We're proud to say that our Manhasset girls came through with victory.

G I R L ' S A R C H E R Y

In the woodsy section of Manhasset's campus, the girls archery group practice every Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon in hopes of becoming Robin Hood's assistants. With good posture and arched bows the group stand perfectly poised, aiming their arrows at the center of the target. Competition between the girls in this activity is keen. Interscholastic archery tournaments are held at Play Days at neighboring schools. One primary aim of this group is to improve that "modern generation slouch." Although archery is a primitive sport it is really not as bloody as the ancient game. In fact, all the girls are enthusiastic about archery, the up-and-coming sport.

G I R L ' S B A D M I N T O N

Badminton, that game everyone refers to as a slow rather "sissy" game, is just the contrary. If you don't believe this, ask anyone of the twenty girls on the team this year.

The badminton season was changed from the winter to the fall in order to have more room in the gym. The majority of the team was made up of the younger girls of Manhasset High School. All the older "girls" were occupied with hockey.

The girls took part in Great Neck Play Day and matched their skill against Hempstead, Huntington and Great Neck. They ended the season with a match against Huntington.

G I R L ' S B A S K E T B A L L

The basketball season this year was unusually good. As every year, an Honor and Reserve team were chosen. Frieda Bean, captain of the Honor team, produced a good showing with her team, with high honors going to Bettie Raugh and Helen Hicks. Helen was chosen captain of the team for next year, her junior year.

The reserve team consisted of twelve girls, and these girls certainly deserve credit. Their captain was Pat Rock, with Angie Watson and Carol Bassett holding top honors.

Both teams revealed their hard practice at the various games played. The Honor team defeated all the schools with the exception of Foxwood. A return game was arranged and Foxwood was defeated the second time. The Reserve team upheld the standard of the school.

Well, shiver our timbers. Heading across the field with sticks in hand, Manhasset's lacrosse team made up of the school's best hard-hitting amazons, race along towards the goal for a sure victory. Lorraine Drennan, who is head of girls' lacrosse, works enthusiastically to keep her first and second teams in tip-top shape for each game. Her faithful followers and team-mates consist of those two energetic sophomores, Helen Hicks and Barbara Vail, not to mention Carol Bassett and Dorace Miller, who stampede the field, making their opponents cower from fright.

Miss Henrietta Gerken, our athletic counselor, heads the sport, though she is aided and abetted by her enthusiastic followers.

Strike one, ball two, this year's baseball team headed by Pam Wakem started off with a bang. At the play day at Adelphi College they won most of their games by a wide margin. Every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon our able girls are out practicing on Memorial Field. Anne Ruggerio and Veronica Grik have had a habit of disturbing the tennis players when they bang home runs out of bounds, one right after another. The team's skill and compliance to rules is what has made them a sure winner this season.

G I R L ' S H O C K E Y

"Hurry up, girls, we've got to make some cocoa before they get off the field!" M.H.S's prize girls' hockey team dashes into the building and invades the Home Economics Department. The "eats" are waiting on the table when the rest of the teams pour in from the field. Events of the past hour or so are tossed back and forth between tables. When the last of the cocoa and cookies has disappeared, the girls pair off and wander out.

Manhasset's hockey team was more or less handicapped by the fact that the Girl's Athletic Field now stands under our rising new cafeteria, and they had to play on the choppy football field. No complaints were heard, however, and, if one looked closely, Barbara Vail, Helen Hicks, and Pat Rock, (all star athletes) could be seen dashing around the field with the same fervor as before. Proof of the team's might is that they won all but one of their games.

GIRL'S SPORT NIGHT

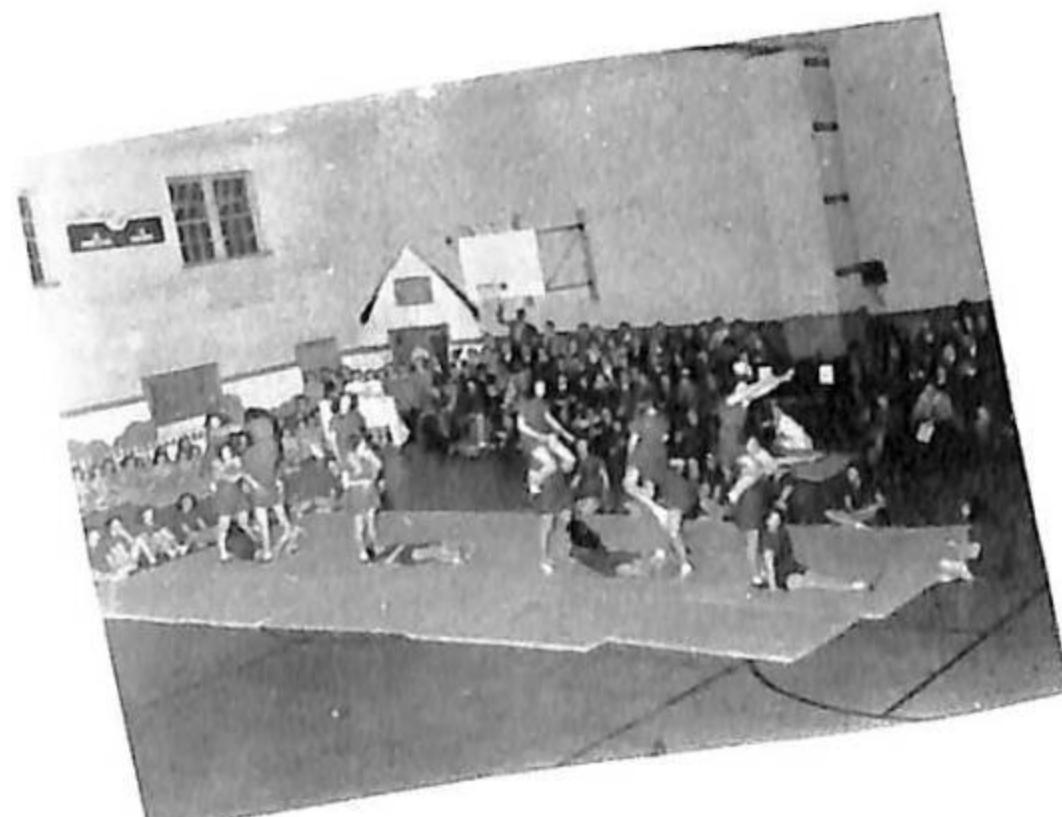

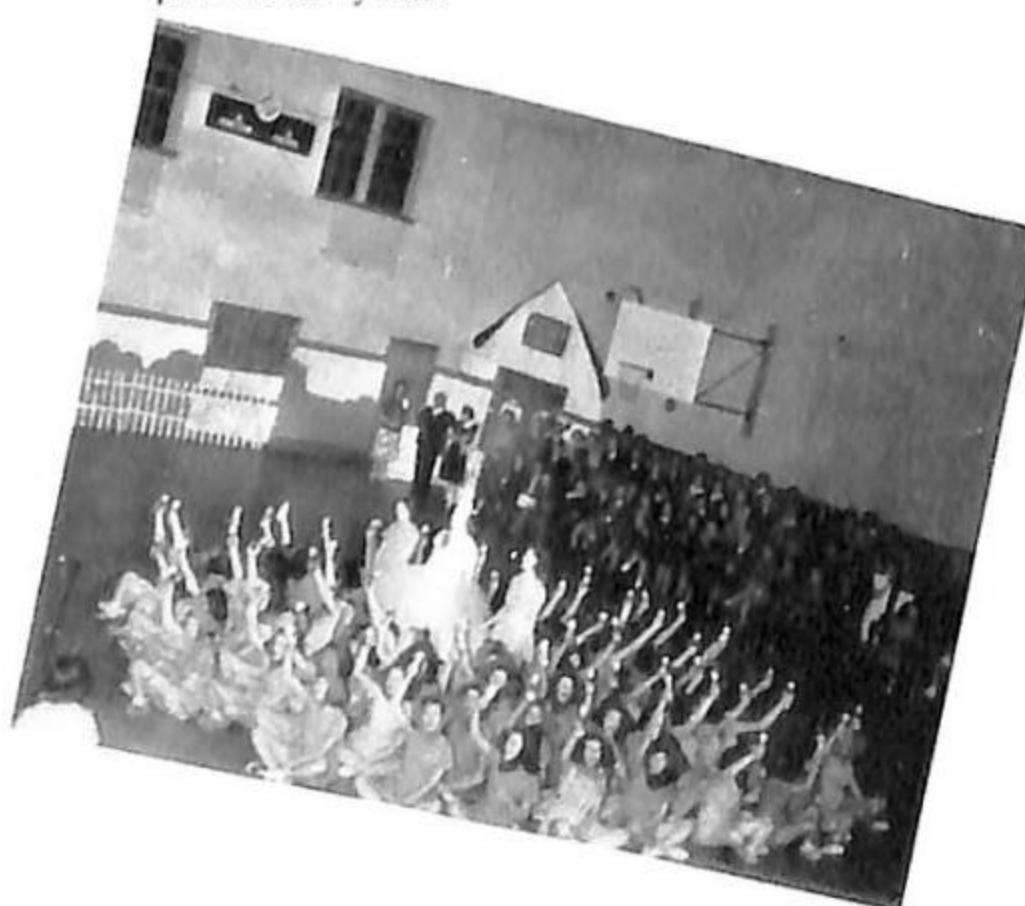

With a blare of horns and the traditionay circus music that is known to us all, the Blue Team started off Girl's Sports Night of 1942 with a "bang." Parading in spectacular array the Blue Team Circus made an unusual and amusing entrance. Next in sharp contrast the Orange Team individually impersonating orange blossoms, appeared in the darkened gym doing an inspiring routine with orange lights. As a climax their captain, Betty Jean Fleer (stricken with measles the preceding week) suddenly emerged from a large orange that was wheeled down "Orange Blossom Lane."

Then, with rival teams seated on their respective sides began a series of songs and cheers interrupted intermittently by relays which kept the audience cheering (to say nothing of the participants.)

Tumbling and stunts showed more ingenuity and hard work than ever before. The Orange Team commenced by driving through hoops onto the mats and executing a somersault. Following this spectacle, the Blue Team rolled into a clash of cymbals, on mats arranged in a V for Victory Formation. The "Oranges" later rejoiced to learn that they had won this event.

The basketball games brought to the evening its peak of excitement. The "Blues" won this fray and nervously both teams paraded around the gym in the final Grand March, took places and proceeded to await the decision of the judges. Mr. Howard briefly summarized the various activities and awarded the points for each event. Pandemonium reigned when he presented the plaque to Pat Malone, captain of the Blue Team.

On the whole, Sports Night, this year, showed a tremendous amount of effort on the part of both teams and the rivalry was keener than it has been in any previous year.

DANCES AND PARTIES

Manhasset High School's first party this year came after the Hallowe'en "Hayride" show and was of course the Hallowe'en Party. The decorations aptly created the Hallowe'en spirit. The talents of the Decoration Committee combining with a volleyball and a sheet to produce a ghost in the middle of the gym, where the dancing was a big success.

In December came the Senior Prom which the students found very enjoyable. The theme was Sun Valley, and the bleachers were made to resemble snowbanks. The dancers weaved their way through evergreen trees.

In January came the Tower dance. It succeeded both in giving everybody a good time and in helping to raise the money which had to be spent before you could read this.

Also in January was the G.O. Dance for which we were able to obtain the Club Esquire Band whose music contributed to giving everybody an enjoyable evening.

The Washington Group Dance was given in February. St. Valentine's Day was near and as a consequence valentines supplied the theme. Not only were the decorations in the form of hearts, but in the middle of the dance floor there was a booth; to help finance the trip touring the nation's capital, the group sold valentines. Need we mention that it went over very well?

March saw a dance given by and for the Eighth Grade. The sub-freshmen had a good time dancing to records.

In April the Sophomore class gave the Soph Hop. This dance to which the girls get a chance to take the boys, is one of Manhasset's best known functions. The theme was popular records, depicting the record titles being arranged around the room together with large paper notes. The Sophomores had hired not only a band but a singer with it. This affair was as much a success as it always is.

The Junior Prom which was given in May was perhaps the biggest and best dance of the year. The Juniors secured "Bucky Walters" Orchestra and chose a spring theme with the dance hall Lover's Lane and the orchestra playing in Wisteria Arbor. An added feature was that every senior there was given a surprise.

The last dance of the year also went over well. It was given by the G.O. on the night of the organization's election day and the results of the elections were announced. It was another "hen hop."

"RADIO SHOW"

It's marvelous, stupendous, come one, come all. Music, noise, shorts. Have you bought your ticket yet? Mister, can you spare 55? The advertising for Manhasset's first Radio Show was hilarious. Down at the Manhasset station, all trains were met, and all commuters were sold tickets. The band played and the students howled! The success of our outdoor advertising was amazing!

What acting! The singing, oh, it makes me tingle from head to toe. And the dancing, a work of art! Manhasset High is certainly full of talent. Remember that little red-headed fellow who lost his dog? I think his name was Kend. I nearly split my sides laughing at him. He should be a comedian in "Hellzapoppin."

And that O'Brien girl! Her imitation of a little girl at different ages reciting "Mary had a little lamb" was a riot! Her facial expressions! And her jitterbugging! She and Kenny Beckendorf were wonderful. His feet moved as rhythmically as Fred Astaire's. They were certainly lucky to have such good music. Why, they played as many numbers as the top bands of today. The leader, John Goff, reminded me of Glenn Miller. Wasn't Dave Elmore the organizer of the Swing Band?

The singing! It sort of made me catch my breath. Miss Crance did wonderfully well with the choir. The tone and harmony were excellent. What did you think of the "Alice Blue Gown" chorus? Didn't they sound well, especially with Anne Lay singing the theme? Do you recall the Night Club Scene? The scene where the lights were dim and the people at the tables ate and danced. Melissa Jones was the cute cigarette girl. They had a different floor show for the celebrities. A tap-dancing team featuring Pat Mullally and Evelyn Broglio, backed by a tap chorus of American Beauties, was nimble and lively. They had an excellent routine.

And do you think that the Radio Show's models weren't professionals? Their ease, poise, grace and costumes were all individual assets. Dot Garrick looked trim in that white and blue bathing suit, and also Betty McKenna in her neat tennis creation. Jinx Falkenberg had better watch out for the cute numbers from Manhasset High.

Bargy, Malone, O'Brien's Dumbo Melody, the Quiz Program, Carroll's Thor, Anne Curran and the trio's "White Cliffs of Dover," Mr. Raffensberger's voice, the Swing Band, the waiters—everything was excellent.

When you have gotten to this note you have just about seen all of the Tower and nothing that we say here can change your opinion of it one way or another. In another sense though, you have not even started to see the Tower. No one can appreciate how much this book means to the staff, unless they have gone through the trials and tribulations that we went through in rooms 14 and 12. We are sure that Mr. Dawson and Mr. Brewster will be glad to see this in print and all the bills marked PAID and see that their headaches were all in vain.

Special thanks go to Jack Sherman and Willard Schilling of the Horan Engraving Co. and the Schilling Press, respectively, who used many a bottle of aspirins worrying over us, for their invaluable help with the technical ends of the book.

Our grateful thanks also go to Bill Creelman and the Camera Club for their excellent help with the pictures for the Tower.

For all the headaches we really had a wonderful time creating this book and we hope it meets with your approval.

No warriors going off to battle could ever have had more grim and determined expressions on their faces than all the little Manhasset students trudging courageously to their portals of wisdom.

It was easy to pick out the seniors in this mass of humanity by the "look-where-I-am" expression, reposing serenely on their bright and intelligent visages. But whether they were seniors or not, their bright shiny faces betrayed their eagerness to reach their halls of learning.

The date of this happy occurrence, the opening of the school year, was on September 2, 1941.

The first opportunity that the faculty and students alike had to throw off the yoke of intellectual thinking, was the first football game. The date was September 27th. We met Lindenhurst and tied the game at 6-6.

That night we had our first G.O. Dance, and all our handsome football heroes (who could still hobble) took their "cuties" to the first dance of the school year.

Thus, closed the first notch of the school year.

Manhasset 11

O C T O B E R

Our football season continued with great success in October. On October 4th we took over Oyster Bay with a 7-0 victory. The next week Farmingdale felt the mighty Manhasset eleven — the score was 7-6 in our favor. Then on October 18th we white-washed East Rockaway 20-0. On October 25th, we in turn were white-washed by Poly Prep.

We rallied, and on October 21st we had our annual Halloween Party. Our entertainment was directed by Hedley Gordon Graham, the "big-chief" of the Civic Theatre. Our local talent provided a most enjoyable evening for everyone. With their theme, "The Louisiana Hayride," they gave us a very novel diversion from the usual.

In October, excavation was started in the girls' field for a new addition to our high school.

Our noble football team was seen, it has been rumored, watching the expert dirt-diggers. At the end of the football season (see November) they showed by their standing in the league, that they had really picked up a few pointers.

So with diggers still digging, and steam shovels still "steaming," October chugged into November.

NOVEMBER

It is scarcely possible to imagine how November could have begun more auspiciously for Manhasset High than it did. The first day of that month saw our varsity football team ring a score of 27 to 0 against Garden City. One week later they won a game with Roslyn by 14 to 7. It is hardly surprising, therefore, that Manhasset won the championship of the Sagamore League.

And, just as our Varsity made things hot for Garden City and Roslyn, Mother Nature refrained from making it very cold for anyone. We had warm weather for Election Day and for what may be the last Armistice Day we will celebrate for some time. Not that this detracted from our Thanksgiving — or rather Thanksgivings, for not all of us tamely submitted to the tyranny of that man.

DECEMBER

December was but five days old when trembling students received the year's first report cards—sealed for their parents, though many could not resist the temptation to take a first look themselves. This was two days before Fate flunked the experts who had insisted that Japan was not a first-class military power. Some of the male students began then to think of joining the Navy — as some soon did — but that did not hamper the Senior Prom. The theme was Sun Valley, and, due to the efforts of both the Senior Prom Committee and the Band, the affair was a big success.

In December Manhasset's varsity basketball team won two games.

On December 23 school was out, and the students flocked home, all thinking of the coming Christmas — merry albeit green — and New Year, but some thinking in addition of the approaching mid-year regents.

J A N U A R Y

After a merry Christmas vacation crammed with excitement, late nights and frolic, the bedraggled students of Manhasset High reluctantly returned to classes on January 5th to recuperate from their holiday. "Classes, classes, classes — will they end?" was the enthusiastic spirit which prevailed throughout the school. By Friday evening all were ready to get the basketball season under way. We won as usual. So onward we ploughed through the oncoming week. Then came the G.O. Dance on January 31st. Fun, fun, and more fun — but the clouds grew darker as we faced the prospects of our grim mid-years during the last week of January. We survived and continued unawares onto February.

Regents did not, however, sooth our feverish brows. With despairing voices shouting. "What was your answer — $x^2 + n - 3$ or a?" We tried to brave the storm.

Along with the cold winds and flurries of snow came the relief of finding mid-years and more months.

Amidst the excitement of regents in the past for a few recurring holidays came cupids' hop, given on that special date, February 14, by the ambitious Washington group. Mighty seniors to lowly eighth-graders danced to the music of their favorite records, while messengers delivered valentines which were on sale at the dance.

Manhasset's basketball team, with Podbielski as high scorer for February, was victorious over Port Washington and Great Neck.

On February 20th the entire student body trod from the stately portals of our school to commence the first of the well-liked spring vacations. As empty as the halls would usually be, a few ambitious souls from the Tower staff filled them with noise as they typed copy on a sunny Tuesday. February 26 and 27 the entire chorus and orchestra trooped to the High School for Radio Show rehearsals.

Thus did February join the passing months.

Roar — in came March like a lion. M.H.S. was in a dither.

In every one of the usually unoccupied corners of the building tap dancers, jazz band players and quartets could be heard busily rehearsing their routines for the great event of the year, Manhasset's first annual Radio Show. An almost voiceless choir sang and resang songs that at the insistence of Miss "I don't want to be an old bear" Crance while the orchestra played on and on. March 6 and 7 saw the theatrical prodigies of M.H.S., weak-kneed with nervousness, giving a polished performance.

Amidst all this excitement a selected group of expectant students emptied a few possessions into a suitcase and boarded a bus on the ninth for the nation's capital.

Four days later relieved teachers looked around the classrooms and announced to the occupants of lately empty seats, "All the excitement is over. You must get back to work."

The remainder of an eventful month passed amidst scratching of pens and the scribbling of pencils as Manhasset's students worked diligently at past, present, and future homework assignments. True to form, March came like a lion and went out like a lamb.

As March vanished into the past, April was ushered in by a torrent of rains and quantities of warmish weather which didn't last any too long. With it came also the never-to-be-forgotten Sophomore Hen Hop—that one and only "musical night." For this gala affair, many gals thanked their lucky stars that April had finally rolled around because afterwards, under the impetus of hen-hop invitations, many more boys were asking for dates.

Time marched on and the girls worked for, and we all saw, that ever-intriguing Sports Night. To parallel the Oranges' victory of last year, the Blues' proved their sportsmanship with a decided lead in the score. Speaking of sports, the boys likewise started practice for those two leading games, lacrosse and baseball.

Climaxing this festive month, the long-awaited word of "vacation" was unanimously accepted and literally "eaten up" by both students and teachers alike.

After many wintry months of frost-bitten faces and mud-splattered feet, the month of May was jubilantly received by the Manhasset students. May, with its mild weather and warm sunshine, brought with it the expectations of lazy lunch hours spent under the "beloved tree," bigger and more successful basketball and lacrosse games, and, for the gals, a chance to splurge in their cotton dresses.

As if through some magical power, the leaves and buds on all the trees and flowers burst into bloom, transforming the parking area into a veritable fairyland of greens and pinks.

Within the school the junior class worked diligently on their year's most important event, the Junior Prom. The senior class members, equally energetic, spent all their spare time in room 14 in their efforts to complete the 1942 Tower.

Behind the school, on the baseball diamond, Manhasset's baseball team spent many tedious and weary hours practicing for the coming year of the season. With the earnestness and sincerity of major leaguers, they slugged baseballs, from three to six, each afternoon.

May, anxiously awaited by all, came and left with surprising rapidity, leaving springtime and new energy in the hearts of Manhasset students.
